A Silver Tea and Doll Bazaar will be held Sunday afternoon from 2 until 6 o'clock at the Carmel Woman's Club for the benefit of the Carmel Mission School. Peninsula collectors have loaned many charmingly dressed dolls for the occasion. Mission Mothers Club Sponsors Tea, Doll Bazaar

The Mothers' Club of the Carmel Mission which is sponsoring the Silver Tea and Doll Bazaar to be held next Sunday afternoon from 2 to 6 at the Carmel Woman's Club suggests that the grown-ups come early and avoid the rush of children which is expected during the last hour.

The affair is for the benefit of the children of the Mission School and it seemed unfair not to allow the children to see the beautiful collection of dolls which are being loaned by collectors throughout the Peninsula for exhibition. So from 5 to 6 o'clock will be the Children's Hour.

Acting as hostesses and assisting in pouring tea and coffee will be Mrs. Joseph C. Hooper, Mrs. E. W. L. Franklin, Miss Ellen D. Sullivan, Mrs. Mary Demsey, Mrs. Waldo Hicks and others.

Delicious home made refreshments will be served.

Catherine Winslow in Watsonville Recital Sunday

Catherine Winslow, the gifted pianist who is scheduled to play on December 17 at the High School Auditorium, will also be heard in recital in Watsonville on December 3, where she will play for the Benevolent Fund of the Santa Cruz County Branch of the Music Teachers Association of California. She will play at the Woman's Club at 3 p.m.

The Carmel concert will be for the benefit of the Bardarson Fund, and tickets are now available by phoning Mrs. P. A. Holm, 5th and Lincoln, Carmel 7-6278.

Jimmy Griffin Is Assistant To Peter Mawdsley

Thomas L. (Jimmy) Griffin, Jr., took over his new duties this morning as assistant to City Clerk Peter Mawdsley, following his appointment to that office this week. Although the city clerk may hire without consulting the city council, the appointment of Griffin had the individual approval of all the councilmen. For the present it will be a part time job, mornings only.

Woman Killed In Big Sur Accident

Vivian Stable, 28, of San Francisco, died Wednesday morning at the Peninsula Community Hospital from injuries suffered in an automobile accident on the Big Sur highway, 17 miles south of Carmel.

Driver of the car, Anthony Melhado, who escaped injury, told Highway Patrolmen that his car went out of control, skidded 230 feet along the road and then went over the cliff and down the embankment. Miss Stable was thrown from the car as it went over.

Dorney's Funeral Chapel is in charge of arrangements, which are pending.

In announcing the appointment, Mawdsley said that the increased business in his office requires extra help, and pointed out that in case of illness or other eventualities, the office could be manned by a trained person rather than a person who was unfamiliar with the required routine.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin have been Carmel for a year and a half, although they have been visitors here in the past.

Griffin served with the United States Army Signal Corps for four years during World War II, with two of those years spent as assistant to executive headquarters depot in Philadelphia.

He is glee club director of the Carmel Youth Center and the Masonic Chorus, and this week was appointed as director of music and youth for All Saints' Church.

With the moving into the new church, All Saints' has planned a larger and more effective program for the children and youth of the Parish. Under Mr. Griffin's direction a Children's Choir is now being formed, with the hope that they will be ready to sing at the Family Christmas Service. The new director is also serving as

Double Header Benefit Fashion Show On Dec. 9

A big fashion show for the benefit of the Carmel Youth Center and the Carmel Mission Restoration Fund will be held next Saturday night, December 9, at the Pine Inn. Dinner will be served at 7:30, and the fashion show will start around 8:30 or 9.

Twelve local dress-shops will participate in the fashion show. Most of them participated in earlier Pine Inn fashion-shows this year.

The proceeds will be divided equally between the Carmel Youth Center and the Carmel Mission Restoration Fund. People who wish to attend are urged to make reservations early.

Reaffirmation of the original plan for acquiring the beach strip between the Carmel river lagoon and Point Lobos to be included in the state park setup was given by the planning commission, following a report by a subcommittee which investigated the problem thoroughly two weeks ago.

This decision means that another plan which had been offered by certain property owners and other interests to sell a strip of the beach and to exclude a knoll on which stands the Portola cross was rejected entirely.

of land per residence. Some property owners feel that the restrictions should be reestablished at the expiration time, while others feel that the county minimum of 6,000 feet should be applied to the area in question.

Protests against retaining the present restrictions were heard from Arthur Kronholm, Mrs. Frank Gonzales, Mrs. Octavia Martin and a written protest from Dr. Ralph Weston.

In favor of maintaining the present restrictions were C. J. By-

PADRES HOST INDIANS AT CARMEL GYM TONIGHT

Carmel High School's lightweight and varsity basketball squads will get their first taste of interschool competition tonight when they clash with the potent Fremont (Sunnyvale) cagers. The local preps haven't picked an easy opponent for their 1950 debut, as Fremont is recognized for their classy basketball teams. The Indians won the Carmel tournament last March and made many friends by their brilliant play during the tourney. Three of the first stringers off last year's championship team return for action this year. The Indians are rated favorites to cop the Santa Clara Valley League this year and tonight's tilt winds up their practice schedule before league play starts.

The Red and Gray squads have been pruned to working size and are shaping up their team play. Rolfe Leavitt, lightweight mentor, has 13 likely looking prospects vying for positions on the Babe team. Butch Laugenour and Mike Ricketts are the only lettermen returning from last year's lightweight team, but several boys have picked up valuable experience with the C and D teams. Jerry Colman, transfer from Oroville High School, has shown considerable promise and should provide the Padres with needed speed. The lightweight roster includes: Bob Campbell, Buddy Grant, Mike Ricketts, Bob Laugenour, Les Doolittle, John King, Doug Smith, Lou Jaramillo, Jack McCormick, Mike Elliott, Jerry Colman, Tommy Brosnan, and Ron Wolverton. Probable starters against Fremont: Grant and Campbell, guards, Smith, center, Colman and Laugenour, forwards. Tonight's lightweight clash starts at 7 o'clock.

Carmel's varsity is untested against topflight competition, but lettermen Overin, Emery, Updike, Thompson, Doolittle, and Reimers have lots of court experience and provide the nucleus for a solid hoop squad. The Doelman brothers and Ken Wightman provide good rebound height for the Padres and these lads are rapidly developing into good ball handlers. Howard Veit, Bill Daniels, and Skipper Lloyd have traded in their football togs and will try their hand at the hoop sport.

Probable starters in tonight's varsity tilt: Frans Doelman and Lanny Doolittle, forwards, Ken Wightman, center, Henry Overin and Bobby Updike, guards.

LOBO GRIDDERS

AT SANTA ROSA TONIGHT

It's the big one for the Lobos tonight. The southern section junior college champions get their long-awaited chance against the awesome Santa Rosa squad in the playoff between the two sections. Santa Rosa, ballyhooed for Junior Rose Bowl honors, has done a terrific job of overlooking the Monterey lads and have even accepted tickets to the Pasadena game as winners of the northern championship. The rock and sock type of blocking and tackling employed by the scrappy Lobos may bring favored Santa Rosa a severe jolt before tonight's fracas is finished. The local collegians have the tools to give any junior college a terrific tussle when their offensive weapons are functioning at top efficiency. At the beginning of the season, the Lobos were pretty much an individual offensive aggregation, with Al Mathews relied upon for most of the ball-moving fireworks. However, in recent weeks, Handley, Aiello, and Anastasia have picked up considerable yardage and eased the pressure on the brilliant Mathews. Strong defensive play has featured the MPC performance in the last three games and their sharp tackling may be the answer to the much talked about Santa Rosa offense. In tripping Hartnell, 12 to 0, the Lobos gave up 49 yards on the ground and allowed three completed passes. The sharp pass defense of Larry Mathews, Tom Handley, and Joe Grammatico will receive a severe test from the pass-happy Santa Rosans.

Harvey, the well-known Broadway hit which ran for several years in New York before going on tour, will be presented by the Monterey Peninsula 20-30 Club and Optimists Club on Monday, December 18, at 8:15 p. m. at the Pacific Grove Auditorium. Starring Robert Paquin and Pearl Ford, Harvey has an all-professional cast, and is the first of three Broadway plays to be presented here.

Robert Paquin played in last season's Guild production of Fair and Warmer, which was also shown at the Pacific Grove Auditorium. In the three preceding seasons, he played in Made in Heaven, Therese, and The Philadelphia Story. He appeared in Abraham Lincoln on Broadway, also Showboat, and toured in Victor Herbert's The Only Girl.

Pearl Ford has appeared in many Broadway productions, and played opposite such stars as Pauline Ford, Ralph Morgan, Helen Hayes and Katherine Hepburn.

Later productions, scheduled respectively for March 6 and May 15, are Born Yesterday and I Like It Here.

The appearance of these Broadway hits on the Monterey Peninsula has been endorsed by the Community Concert Association.

Monday Was Last Day For Sewer Payments

Monday was the last day for payment of sewer assessments, and William Satchell, secretary of the Carmel Sanitary District board, announced that a total of $132,736.30 had been received. The amount due was $291,143, and the balance will be put into 15-year bonds.

Work is progressing on the new pump by Carmel Mission. The road there is blocked while the work is going on, and motorists make a detour through Hatton Fields.

The Time Has Come . .

By Kippy Stuart

In the past few weeks, I have been asked a dozen times, "How do you prune roses?" At the risk of being redundant, here goes. Roses are pruned to regulate the size and quality of blooms, and to remove diseased and damaged parts. Climbing roses are treated differently from the bush tea rose. The climber may be literally cut to the bone. Cut out all old wood, since flowers only come on new wood. The trick of the thing is to distinguish between this new and old wood. Canes of old wood will have a greyish, crinkled look and the thorns may be brown. New wood is smooth in texture and even at this time of year, is a nice cool green. Select several long new canes and strip all lateral branches leaving only the bare scaffold. If you tie the part that is to remain, to the right and to the left, in a lateral pattern, more flowers will result. Climbing roses that are left to reach for the sky give scanty, scattered blooms.

Bush, or tea roses, are grown for individual flowers, whereas climbing roses are grown for mass production. The same system of pruning away dead and old wood maintains in bush roses. Select new, green canes, five to seven, and cut away all lateral branches, leaving only the scaffold frame. The process is simple in the extreme and should give you no qualms or worry. The more you cut dead wood out, the more flowers will be your reward.

But pruning is not the only care for all sorts of roses, at this time of year. They should be cultivated, weeds removed, and saucers made to hold fertilizer. These saucers should be about five inches deep around the bole of the plant to hold manure, and compost. Be sure you do not cover the knot at the base of plant where the hybrid variety has been grafted to the original root. All tea roses are hybrids. New varieties have been grafted to suit the horticulturist.

There is another problem in this locality when it comes to roses. Select the variety that grows successfully in your neighbor's garden. One of the best climbers in this section is Etoile de Holland, meaning the Star of Holland. This is a deep red rose tipped with black and it is the most willing bloomer in my garden. Even at this time of year I harvest enough red roses to keep my living room looking like Spring. The next variety that does well on the Monterey Peninsula is Golden Emblem, a deep, golden rose that is packed with fragrance. Of course there are many other climbers that do well here; Paul's Scarlet, Mermaid, Silver moon and Cecil Bruner. This last is a tiny pink bud that is exquisite in the extreme.

I have tried all the fancy varieties of bush roses. In fact I have gone down the line. Last year I abandoned the new trick names and today I have only one variety of bush rose in my garden. It is called The Doctor, and to me it looks like the first cousin of the old American Beauty. The Doctor grows on long, healthy stems and produces buds with length and form. These buds open into huge fragrant flowers, a deep pink, and I'm sticking to The Doctor for the rest of my life. Don't prune roses until January.

Georgia Nicklett Displays Gift For Musicianship In Solo Work At Symphony Orchestra Concert

By EBBEN WHITTLESEY

Georgia Nicklett, appearing as piano soloist with the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Clifford Anderson last Tuesday revealed a gift of musicianship that most of us did not know was present on the Peninsula. Her playing of the Schumann piano concerto was perhaps the best solo performance that has been heard to date in a concert by this young orchestra. A slight girl of charming appearance, Miss Nicklett with clearcut execution evoked much tonal beauty from the Steinway, which is said to be still a little inflexible, owing to its comparative newness and the infrequency with which it is used.

The two conductors of the orchestra, Clifford Anderson and Lorell McCann, have wisely decided to divide the concerts of the orchestra between them this year, so that each concert will be prepared and presented by one conductor rather than both. This gives the players a better chance for thorough and uninterrupted preparation of program material.

In general, the orchestra was more secure and balanced than it has ever been at the beginning of a season. Throughout the evening the strings maintained a unity and clarity of tone that they have not achieved in the past.

The program was ambitious, and possibly a little too long. Rossini's overture from the Barber of Seville opened the program in an atmosphere of slight uncertainty, from which the orchestra soon recovered. The tempo became brisk, the attacks clear, while the horns and woodwinds were well modulated.

Haydn's Symphony No. 104, one of the London Symphonies, completed the first part of the program. There was a pleasing smoothness of performance throughout this work. The important roles of violins and cellos were well handled, and a better general balance in the orchestra than formerly, was evident. On the whole this was the best performance of a symphonic work the orchestra has turned in.

The Schumann concerto is a difficult piece of music to play with maximum effect. While not as florid and overdecorated as some of Schumann's writing, it is richly colored and emotional. Miss Nicklett's execution, tone quality and timing were outstanding. Her style is fluid rather than percussive, and her interpretation was probably kept on a conservative level out of consideration for the orchestra which had to follow her. The orchestra gave the best support it has ever given to a soloist.

In the second and third movements there were some pretty difficult orchestral passages involving responsive phrases by solo instruments and small groups of instruments. Here the orchestra got into some trouble. But the instrumental quality as a whole was fine in all the more sustained passages.

The evening concluded to the rousing strains of Morton Gould's American Salute, in which the whole orchestra had a wonderful time. Almost every instrument had a solo, and the piece was played with clarity and vitality. It seemed

Under the direction of Miss Dorothy Wright, dean of girls, a girls' golf club has been started. The girls are starting their practice on the campus, but soon hope to be graduated to the golf course. Miss Wright has divided the girls into two instruction groups: those girls who are beginners, and those who have had some previous experience. At present, the girls are discussing the differences in the different clubs, the rules of the game, the stance, the swing, and the terminology of the game. They are using cotton balls now, but hope to use regular golf balls by Christmas. The club is a big success and has had a large turn-out. Those girls who have signed up are as follows: Pat Hall, Georganne Spencer, Shirley Johnson, Beverly Wood, Alice Ferrante, Deborah Geering, Sue Stoney, Nancy Santee, Sally Reichard, Paula Schneeberger, Nancy Nutter, Joy De Amaral, Pat Merivale, Lynn Carrere, Gay Masten, Karen von Meier, Peggy Weaver, Renee Bedau, Barbara Keller, Pat Sturdy, Pat Finley, Mary Marquis, Suzanne Smith, Clara Olive Wermuth, Marilyn Moffett, Schatzi Herron, Sandra Solomon, Peggy Carpenter, Barbara Horne, and Paula Roloff.

The traditional Leaders' Club Progressive Dinner was held Wednesday evening, November 29. The nine members of the club, Donna Douglas, Diane Lewis, Suzanne Smith, Barbara Horne, Barbie Berg, Sue McCloud, Linda Bain, Pat Merivale, Miss Dorothy Wright, club sponsor, and Edwina Brown, gathered first at Suzanne Smith's home for hors d'oeuvres, and then proceeded to the home of Diane Lewis for soup and salad. Linda Bain's home was the setting for the next course, the entree, which was followed by desert at Barbie Berg's.

NEW C. C. OFFICERS ELECTED

New president of the Monterey Peninsula Chamber of Commerce for the coming year is Harold Harper, who was elected at a meeting of the new directors held Monday. Other officers are Tinsley Fry of Monterey, first vice-president, Alfred G. Fry of Carmel, second vice-president and Vernon Hurd of Pacific Grove, third vice-president. The meeting was held at the Forest Hill Hotel in Pacific Grove.

Milton Williams Has One Man Show

There will be a one man show of paintings and metal work by Milton Williams at the Pebble Beach Art Gallery beginning today, December 1.

Williams, who comes from Burlingame, settled here four years ago. He studied at the San Francisco Academy of Advertising Arts and the California School of Fine Arts. His landscapes in oil depict local scenes mainly—Monterey, Carmel, Pacific Grove, Big Sur highway, the Salinas Valley, Stillwater Cove, Soledad. He will exhibit some scenes from Colma and Seattle.

He will also show metal work and driftwood pieces. He combines brass and copper with driftwood for candelabra, lamps, etc., and makes copies of old ships lanterns out of copper, brass and bottles picked up on beaches.

Sketching Is Fun . . .

PART IV
BY CASHION MAC LENNAN

Mr. Mac Lennan and I arrived in Old New Orleans when the city was "overpopulated with people," as every place we went seemed to be during the wartime. The limit of a hotel stay was three days, and during that time we tried vainly to find an apartment on our own initiative. Finally, we appealed to the Chamber of Commerce, an ever-ready source of help to travelers—at least we found it so—and they sent us to the one place they knew that was suitable in the Vieux Carre, the part of the city we preferred to live in.

Our apartment, on Royal street, was the rear wing of a large three-story balconied house with two courts, which was being restored. A woman of means had bought it to preserve it, and many others were doing the same to save these old fine buildings from ruin and decay. The carriage entrance was through a decorative gate into a small court, and in this was the formal doorway to the house. The architectural details of door facings, decorative iron work in the various fixtures of the building, the spacious stairway in the entrance hall, the rooms with high ceilings, fine mantels and fireplaces, the iron-lace of the balconies, both on the street side and over the courtyard were worthy of serious study, and I made many sketches of them.

The larger courtyard also had an entrance from the street; this court was bordered with greenery and small trees, many potted plants were about and comfortable seats. At the far end of this was our apartment, where we were quiet and secluded although along Royal street ran the streetcar named "Desire," with one terminus at the cemetery, and much other noisy traffic. Royal was the most fashionable street in earlier days. Almost every building housed a "blueblood," and was the scene of important events some of which Cable has recorded in his novels. And on Royal street Audubon had had a studio.

The Esplanade, a spacious parkway not far from us, is lined with dignified old houses more or less decayed but still impressive. The entrance doorways, the fenestration, large and small balconies with iron-lace work railings are architectural gems. Here, I found my simple equipment of soft pencils, toned paper and thumb-box water colors for accent, the right thing. Throughout the "quarter" the French and Spanish influences in the buildings are distinct and definite; and age and patina, with perhaps a little too much dirt and squalor here and there, have added to their charm.

We caught intriguing glimpses through open-work street gates of delightful paved and flower-filled courts. The famous Broulatur courtyard with its flagging and interesting stairways, and the Claiborne patio, noted for its lovely wide fanlight were open to the public, but, exercising an artist's privilege, I boldly entered others to study and enjoy them.

There are great contrasts in the Vieux Carre—beauty and poverty rub elbows here; but common to all of this district are its age (Continued on Page Eight)

How can you pass up prices like these?

As we've been saying for quite a spell—"Whatever your price range—Better buy Buick."

But maybe we'd better get down to brass tacks, as to just what this suggestion means.

In the lower-price field, this has been happening:

Four out of ten Buick SPECIALS—bought by people with a car to trade in—have been bought by folks who formerly drove one of the so-called "low-priced three." They found they could afford a Buick!

In the fine-car field, something even more impressive has happened:

Four out of five people who looked at a ROADMASTER and another very distinguished automobile decided in favor of ROADMASTER!

So—whatever your price range, take a look at our prices—and at what you get for your money.

What you get is the thrill of owning the greatest Buick of all time—as registered by record-breaking sales.

What you get is power and style and comfort and performance that are hard to match in any other automobile.

More specifically—you get the power-with-thrift of Buick's famous Fireball high-compression engine—a style that stands out in any company—a ride with the comfort of coil springs on every wheel—and performance that makes you feel like the head-man-on-any-highway.

Better come in today—and see what can be done about getting quick delivery.

The news at THE SUNSET NURSERY AND FLOWER SHOP (on San Carlos Street between 7th and 8th) is that ELLEN LOMMEL has just arrived from Hollywood to sell flowers and be the new assistant. Ellen Lommel, formerly a prominent Hollywood florist, has had 15 years experience in the florist business. She specializes in doing floral arrangements for parties, weddings and Christmas festivities, and is really an artist in her field.

If you're planning a Christmas or New Year's party, it would be smart to consult her early, so that flowers can be ordered in advance and all arrangements made. Sometimes you can't get just the flowers you want if you wait too long. Ellen Lommel will gladly help you plan your whole floral decors... for she is something of a genius with flowers the way some people are with paint. Phone 7-7106 for orders.

Go in to HARRIET DUNCAN'S for the little gifts that delight every woman's heart. Magnificent trifles come in all shapes, sizes, glittering and otherwise. She has those stunning hand-made Calderon belts, some in leather, others in velvet, in satin, and they're adorned with designs, crests, sometimes crowns... (usually gold). And there are those little hand-crested sweaters, in white, in red, in blue, for $17.95. And plain ones at $12.95. These have gold buttons, are high-necked... milady could wear one anywhere. And satin scuffles come at $5.95... lovely with nylon nighties. And there are the most charming little hand-made hosiery cases, all in satin, for $3.95. Don't miss the Swiss sweaters by the way. They're $14.95, and covered with tiny little ski-men. Other trifles too, too numerous to describe. Go look!

Great news at the VANITY FAIR! There's a Sale going on and hats are 1/3 off, dresses drastically reduced! We saw a wonderful 2-piece tunic dress in gray with an all-over embroidery of sequins... and a most elegant black velvet suit with a lace-top... (lace peeps through at neck and cuffs)... and another fabulous number in black crepe, with a mandarin collar, and elaborate embroidery in gold, pearls, beads, around the cuffs. Would take you anywhere.

But wait 'til you see the chap-eaus! French velours, Czechoslovak velours, brushed beavers... but go in and see for yourself. Don't miss the rack of attractive jerseys and classic sport dresses, by the way. Prices will gladden the heart.

Brrh! But there's a cure for it in at MAXINE'S on Dolores St. Sweaters, sweaters, sweaters... casuals, cashmeres, nylons... both cardigans and matching pull-overs. Just the thing to wear this time of year instead of a blouse. The Bonnie Briar cashmere (just feel that material) come in a deep wine-red, white, midnight blue, pink, tomato red, and a natural shade. (Pull-overs are long and short-sleeved). And the nylons! These divinely practical numbers are very lightweight, can be washed out and there's no worry about shaping. Never too hot, never too cold. Colors are fabulous. Van Gogh blue, gold, white, red, forest green, violent, yellow, pale blue. Cling beautifully at the waist! And don't miss the casuals, all virgin wool, or the sky-tints in the heather weave.

A MURL OGDEN portrait would make a wonderful Christmas gift. Reasonably priced, some are as little as 3 for $15. It's not too late to have one made before Christmas if you make your appointment now. Incidentally, MURL OGDEN does framing too; has every kind of frame. So take that photograph in soon.

KAY'S KNITTING KLINIC is having a sale on this week, 10% off on yarns; it's over tomorrow at noon, but there's still time to grab some. Incidentally, it's not too late to make after-ski socks for Xmas, or those intriguing pixie slippers. KAY'S KNITTING KLINIC will teach you how to knit.

Lots of new, distinctive wall-papers have just arrived at THE CARMEL PAINT & WALLPAPER CO. on Junipero. Stunning, rich, sophisticated... wallpaper just ain't what it used to be, it's so beautiful! Some are chintzy, others very, very elegant, some wildly bold and brilliant. And prices are moderate.

There's a great bargain in a coat at THE COLLEGIATE DRESS SHOP in Monterey this week. A white shorty, ideal for wearing to parties or around the peninsula during the holiday season, it's smart, made of fleece, has big buttons and a shallow collar. Only $29.95. Mrs. Brownley also has a stunning red tweed (it's a shorty, too), with diagonal pockets and bright red buttons... very smart with black. It's $19.95. For the same price, you can get one in beige, a wonderful casual coat for shopping about and general all-around wear.

Mrs. Bathe at the LAS LEMBRANCAS SHOP (Golden Bough Court across from Pine Inn) has finally gotten in those Swedish things she was expecting just in time for Christmas. Brass candlesticks, some tall, others long, with 4 candle-holders — and tiny ones for tiny candles. Incidentally, she has refills for the angel chimes. And candle-vases, too; you put them over candles, fill them with flowers. And little wooden birds from Stockholm. Charming decors for the table.

Don't miss her gleaming copper vases, shaped like buckets, pitchers, watering cans, etc. Or the little German angel candle-holders. Or the Portuguese peanut bowls.

Signaure nylon is being featured at PUTNAM AND RAGGETT'S this week. This beautiful nylon hose would make a wonderful Christmas gift. Only $1.00 a pair, you can buy a box of 3 pairs for $3.00. It's 15 denier, 51 gauge, has a dark seam; and comes in two shades, Petal (a tope color) and Fireweed (a warm brown). Special price for Christmas.

and historical interest.

The headquarters of La Fitte, the pirate, now a cafe which serves its own concoction, the Obituary, the Absinthe House, whose specialty is the Pirate's Dream, Mme. John's Legacy, written about in Cable's story of that name, the court of the Little Theater, which has been reconstructed in the Creole style, and many other places with a past, as well as the streets of low one-story houses with steep overhanging roofs found their way into my sketch book. Some of these could have been imported bodily from France. They rose from the side-walk, were in tints of faded shrimp-pink, green, soft yellow or in grays, had dormer windows, large chimneys from which sprouted many chimney pots, and I could see trees and flowering shrubs extending above garden walls in the rear. The vistas of fascinating roof lines could be seen along most any street of the "quarter," and from our own housetop I made a composition of the neighboring roofs, at various angles to each other. This very French view was colorful and amusing, with many chimneys bristling with pots, and even a couple of felines sunning themselves on the roofs to enliven the scene.

And the people! What a diversity of race, costumes, stations in life, occupation! The mulatto women with huge baskets of fruits and vegetables balanced on their heads, vendors with little pushcarts, hucksters with horse-drawn vehicles of all kinds, the hard-working horses with hats on as it was then warm in New Orleans; black-robed nuns, many tourists, and of course many many darkies, and among them the tall-hatted sweeps wanting to clean your chimney. There were so many queer, unusual characters—a mere artists standing on the corner sketching them attracted no attention whatever. And hungry cats and dogs slinked furtively along through dark passages, or sniffed for scraps in the gutters. As usual, we did our best to spread a little cheer among them.

Browsing in the antique shops is one of the fascinating sports of New Orleans; and there were plenty of them near us, filled with treasures from the old southern plantation homes. Here, I found many many beautiful objects I wanted to carry off with me but had to content myself with some prints chiefly by local artists, which I found in some of these places.

We rode about New Orleans and visited all the museums and art galleries and, of course, the zoo in Audubon Park where I saw my first and only pink pelican. Cabildo Museum elephant-size reproductions of it. And we found in Audubon Park the city's only hill, built by the WPA to show the New Orleans children what a hill is and what it could be used for.

One unforgettable visit was made to the Pre-Columbian collection at Tulane University. The small clay figurines of terra cotta and polychrome, sculptured fragments from Mayan pyramids, vessels, funerary urns—objects reaching as far back as the archaic period—were beautifully arranged and displayed. The curator showed us the splendid assortment of Guatemalan and Mexican costumes which were to be "modelled" by the university co-eds at a fashion show held in conjunction with their study of Mexican and Central American history.

New Orleans, it is said, is the home of gastronomic joy. But one must forget one's waistline and calories if one wishes to enjoy visits to its famous restaurants. In most of them one concentrates entirely on the food. There is no music nor entertainment, the interiors are old fashioned, and most of them are small and gas lighted. This kind of lighting is even an accessory to the serving; when crepe Suzettes or Cafe Brulot are brought in all ablaze the gas lights are dimmed to make the occasion more spectacular.

Antoine's is perhaps the most famous dining-out spot. Their oysters Rockefeller, pompano en papillote and truite Marguery are some of their noted creations, though in the truite Marguery Mr. Mac Lennan almost met his Waterloo.

Gumbo Creole, crawfish bisque, bouillabaisse, and jambalaya are gourmets' delights. Every cook has his own opinion on which combination is best for jambalaya; the ingredients, I am told, are modified by the cook's temper, the weather, or what he finds in the ice box.

The distinctive odor of roasting coffee emanating from the French Market, near the waterfront, permeated the Quarter. The coffee there is vigorous stuff; there is a saying that unless the spoon stands up in the cup the coffee isn't a credit to New Orleans. It is strong, bitter, with a large content of chicory. New Orleanians are inveterate coffee drinkers and from early morning to the latest of bedtime hours the French market serves this sturdy concoction. Every Saturday the market resembles Les Halles, Paris, as this is the big day for selling country produce and enormous quantities of river fish and sea food.

Being on the shore of the Mississippi I could not leave it without taking one of the day excursions down the river. It was pleasant, but fell far short of the excitement of my early trips from St. Louis on the embroidered white packet, the Golden Eagle.

When we left New Orleans we passed through the bayou country, where the vegetation was rank and beautiful in color, and with greatly varied leaf forms. The water hyacinths were particularly profuse. These I used in a large oil, with white herons and lillies, which received the prize for decorative painting at the juried annual exhibition of the National Association of Women Painters, Fine Arts Gallery, New York City.

CORUM RETURNS

Corum Jackson returned to Carmel Tuesday morning following a three-week trip which took him as far east as Miami, where he attended the National Real Estate convention. He traveled by train and on the way home stopped over in Dallas, Texas, to have Thanksgiving with relatives there. Another delegate from this area was Porter Marquard.

The Tower Opens In New York

The Robinson Jeffers drama, The Tower Beyond Tragedy, opened Sunday in New York starring Judith Anderson, as a production of the American National Theater and Academy which has been chartered by congress to foster the theater movement throughout the country. Critics varied about the play itself, but were in complete agreement about Miss Anderson's role.

The play was first produced in Carmel at the Forest Theater nine years ago and since that time it has been Miss Anderson's ambition to take the play to New York. This is her first role since her stirring success in Medea.

"Listen, Boy Scout, I want an automatic clothes dryer!"

Every time I try to wash.
Through the rain I have to slosh
Grab my laundry off the line
Ever see such luck as mine?

One wet day we went to town
Where the dealer sat us down,
Showed how automatic dryers
Beat our smoky basement fires!

Let it blow and let it pour
I'm not worried any more.
In my dryer's fluffing heat
Clothes dry, sunny-fresh and sweet.

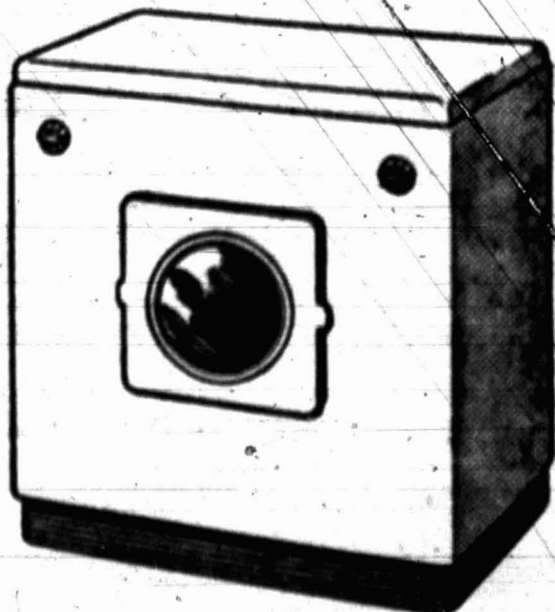

Ladies, an Automatic Home Laundry is a life saver . . . for you, your clothes, your budget. An electric washer does the hard work, washes everything from dungarees to dainties, quickly, gently, economically. An electric dryer fluff-dries your wash in gales of fresh warm air as sweet and clean as sunshine. An electric ironer does up to 70% of the average family ironing without effort. Combined, this automatic trio saves you days not hours, dollars not pennies! Talk to your dealer about demonstrations.

Best of all, your automatic home laundry operates at bargain rates here in California. P. G. and E. rates are among the nation's lowest. Gas and electricity take less than 3¢ of your household dollar.

Lecturer Says Prayer Is Most Vital Force Today

The key to brotherhood and peace lies in the power of prayer—prayer based on an understanding of the nature and allness of God—declared Arthur C. Whitney of Chicago, Tuesday night in a public lecture on Christian Science.

Mr. Whitney challenged the current tendency toward mass hysteria and the helpless fear of war, the atom bomb, and inconceivable destruction. He admitted that Christians today "need to do more than they have ever done before," but he said they have available the weapon of prayer, "the most vital force in the world today."

Saying that much more is being won by Christian prayer than yet appears on the surface, he declared flatly: "Civilization is not headed for destruction."

A former army chaplain now on extended lecture tour as a Christian Science lecturer, Mr. Whitney was brought to Carmel by First Church of Christ, Scientist. He addressed a large audience in the church edifice on the topic Christian Science: A Foundation for World Brotherhood and Peace. He was introduced by Mrs. Paul Winslow.

Mr. Whitney quoted the dean of Yale University Scientific School as saying: "Man, not matter, is the chief problem of the world today."

"What we need is a change in the hearts of men first more than a change in governments. Governments will improve in the measure that we improve," said Mr. Whitney.

He said this change can be brought about—and is already taking place in the lives of thousands of persons—by use of the scientific Christian method set forth in the Bible and applied to human problems through Christian Science.

"Never underestimate the power of the prayer of spiritual understanding to meet any human need," he declared. The truths of Christianity, made scientifically clear and lived according to Christian Science, are "lifting, enlarging, and enlightening the lives they touch," he said.

He stated that this kind of prayer—based on the spiritual facts about God and man, and applying the divine law underlying Christ Jesus' healing method, as taught in Christian Science—dissolves feuds and solves both personal and collective problems.

Mr. Whitney said the fundamental teaching of this religion is that God is All-in-all, the sole creator of the universe including man, and that man is the child of God and therefore Godlike and spiritual.

"Let us reject as counterfeit the mortal sense of man, which is carnal, material, selfish, and untrue," he said.

In the degree that one thinks and moves from this basis, he asserted, the evidence of harmony and spiritual reality will come into his life. Mr. Whitney mentioned, in connection with the application of Christian Science to heal disease, the case of a man cured through prayer in Christian Science of a disease which had been considered incurable.

Mr. Whitney emphasized throughout his lecture the conviction that Christians not only can and should live their religion in their own lives, but that their thoughts and prayers, when based on spiritual understanding, are effective to help their home, community, nation, and world become free of tyranny, fear, and strife.

Because righteous prayer is based on the fact that the power of God or Truth is infinite, it is not merely personal but universal in its scope and effect, he said.

CRAFTS GUILD MEETING

A general meeting of the Carmel Crafts Guild will be held Friday, December 1 (tonight) at 8 p.m. at the Carl Cherry Foundation. The Carl Cherry Foundation is located on the northwest corner of Fourth and Guadalupe in Carmel.

Jeanne D'Orge will show her paintings and illuminations, and all who are interested are cordially invited to come.

Volume Completes R. L. S. Trilogy

The third and final volume of the trilogy on Robert Louis Stevenson was published last week by Stanford Press and it, like the first two, is a masterpiece of its kind and is a "must" for collectors of Stevenson.

It is Our Mountain Heritage, written by Anne Roller Issler, who also wrote the second of the series, Happier For His Presence. The first was No More A Stranger by the Peninsula's Anne B. Fisher.

The latest volume deals with the period Stevenson and his bride, Fannie Osbourne, spent on the slopes of Mount St. Helena in an old mining cabin, the setting of which he later used for The Silverado Squatters.

Weak and ill from months of sickness in both Monterey and San Francisco, Stevenson went to the mountain country in the hope that the climate there would be beneficial.

Mrs. Issler has talked to the people there who remembered Stevenson and has written a vastly interesting account of the months he spent there.

The first volume of the series dealt with his months in Monterey and the second with his life in San Francisco.

Mrs. Issler wrote a volume about ten years ago on this period of Stevensons' life, but the volume was soon out of print, due to collectors' demands for it. This last volume is a completely rewritten and enlarged version of that former work, with new material and photographs added. —B.I.

A.A.U.W. To Meet Dec. 6

The Association of American University Women will have a big party on Wednesday night, December 6, at the Carmel High School Library, beginning at 6 p.m. All 200 members are urged to come, and the A.A.U.W. hopes that they will have the largest attendance they have ever had.

There will be no business meeting. It is to be strictly a "fun" meeting, and there will be a program in charge of the Arts and Crafts section under the chairmanship of Miss Nancy Johnson.

The program will start with illustrations by Miss Albert Dryer and Miss Ruth Blanchard of what to do with Christmas wrappings and decorations. Miss Dryer will concentrate on the kind of Christmas decors you can buy in stores; Miss Blanchard on what you can do with things you already have at home.

This will be followed by a quiz program on the humorous side, and Mrs. Jack Postevin will be Mistress of Ceremonies at the microphone, Miss Ann Martin the roving Mistress of Ceremonies. Mrs. S. P. Karas will furnish the musical background for the questions, and everyone will be asked to participate in the program.

Afterwards there will be Christmas carols, a tree and refreshments.

The Evening Book Section, whose chairman is Mrs. Ted Durein, has requested that all members coming to the party bring books, gaily wrapped, to be put in a box and donated to the Child Care Center. A collection will be taken at the door for the purchase of subscriptions to children's magazines to be printed in Braille and given to the School for the Blind in Berkeley.

Business Association Meeting

The Carmel Business Association will have their annual business meeting at Highlands Inn this year. It will be a dinner meeting at 7:30, December 14, but will be preceded by a cocktail hour beginning at 6:00. The names of new officers will be announced.

Dan James Here

Dan and Lilith James came up from Hollywood to spend Thanksgiving with Dan's mother, Mrs. D. L. James of Carmel Highlands.

Dan James, whose musical, Bloomer Girl, was a Broadway hit several years ago, is currently living and writing in Hollywood. He and Mrs. James both helped with the recent production of Lawless, the film about race prejudice and mob violence in a Texas border town.

Tennis Tournament

The Turkey Tennis Tournament held last Sunday, November 26, marked the official opening of the new championship courts which have recently been added to the Beach Club tennis courts at Pebble Beach.

Following the morning matches, a turkey luncheon was served at the courts for the players.

Winners were Mrs. Kent Parrot and William Eklund; Miss Mary Virginia Hess and James Gallagher; Mrs. Carol Johnson and Lt. Charles Keeler; Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson; Mrs. Clarissa Mitchell and Lt. E. B. Berger; Mr. and Mrs. Ward Wheelock; Mrs. Ray Draper and Max Forrestal; Mrs. Howard Vincent O'Brien and John Stinson; Mrs. Margaret Luker and Hal Leonard; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Kay; and Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Thomas.

Here From Portland

Mrs. Nonie Vial MacKenzie arrived in Carmel from Portland, Oregon, to spend Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul J. Vial, and her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Vial. She will visit here until after Christmas, then go to La Jolla for the winter.

Seth Ullmans Just Back

Mr. and Mrs. Seth Ullman made a rush trip down to Ensenada last week. They left Tuesday, spent Thanksgiving at the Coronado Hotel, and then went to Baja California. They had a wonderful time, got back late Sunday night.

Presenting Yuletide Concert

The Carl Cherry Foundation is presenting A Festival of Music and Dance at Sunset Auditorium on Friday, December 29, at 8:30 p.m. The program will be divided into two sections. The first portion will feature the Madrigal Guild of Berkeley under the direction of Eileen Washington. Early madrigals will be sung by the group, lute songs by featured soloists. And there will be music of rejoicing in the spirit of the Nativity.

The second portion of the program will be devoted to dance, featuring Henry Kersh, who has appeared several times before under the auspices of the Carl Cherry Foundation. Kersh will recreate a series of antique and religious dances. Background music, of the Renaissance and Baroque style, will be provided by a piano, violin and violincello trio.

No tickets or reservations are necessary. The entire cost of the performance will be borne by the Carl Cherry Foundation, an organization which evolved in Carmel several years ago for the purpose of aiding the creative artist.

The Festival of Music and Dance is presented as a gift to Carmel audiences, in celebration of Christmas.

Kochers To Big Game

Dr. and Mrs. R. A. Kocher and daughter, Sibyl, went up to the big game last week. They sat in the Stanford section, while their daughter, June, who goes to the University of California, rooted for California.

San Jose Girl Weds Here

Yvonne Marlene Pollock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Earl Pollock of San Jose, became the bride of Alvin B. Demos of Santa Cruz on Sunday, November 26, at Carmel Mission. Rev. Father John J. Caulfield read the service.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and Margo Spath of San Jose was her only attendant.

Following the ceremony, a reception for family members was held in the Indian Room at Del Monte Lodge.

After a honeymoon in Southern California, the newlyweds will make their home in Santa Cruz.

Kulkulkan Ball

A grand, gala and glittering affair was The Feast of Kulkulkan Arts Ball out at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club last Saturday night. People turned out in the most fabulous costumes, complete with plumes, enormous head-dresses, breast-plates, bits of tiger-skin, knives, body-stripes, death-masks and various other bits of gruesome but exciting Aztec decors.

The whole room looked enchanted, rather like some ancient, holiday spectacle or religious festival, and the Grand March was as splendid as anything ever seen in the Halls of Montezuma or at the bloody pyramids in Teotihuacan. The colors were authentically pre-Columbian; many costumes must have been copied from frescoes, and the waving plumes, the huge, gaudy, glittering head-dresses like those of Aztec priests gave a splendidly rippling effect rather like dyed Mexican corn. One could easily imagine one stood in Mexico City in the days before Cortez.

Everyone was delighted with the costume prizes. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Klepich were awarded the prize for the most authentic pre-Columbian costumes. They came as the god of rain and the goddess of water.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dean were judged the most amusing, for both of them had come as jaguars, one of the symbolic Aztec animals.

But Terry Eby and Mrs. R. K. McGregor got the award for the most beautiful costumes. Terry Eby who appeared as a high priest had the most fabulous head-dress in the whole crowd. It was a towering affair, about five feet high, consisting of great orange and green plumes; and his body was painted in phosphorescent green. Mrs. McGregor, who played the moon-goddess in the pageant which followed, was painted in vertical black stripes, and wore a very brief costume of silver, a turban with a crescent moon at the top.

But the great feature of the evening was the pageant which was directed by Dan Tothoroh, and organized by Luneta Thelen, with dance-direction by Ruth Allstrand. An impressive artistic achievement, it started with a dance by Lepski Miller, who appeared as a courier and symbolized the ecstasy of the virgins soon to be sacrificed to Kulkulkan. Then the three virgins entered, and Gene Perrine of Big Sur appeared in a death-mask as the sorcerer; he danced towards the virgins, brandishing his curved scimitar—death flirting and inviting. Bruce Ariss played the high priest who finally cut the throats of the virgins, and Luneta Thelen did a fabulous, twisting snake-dance in the person of the snake-goddess. (Lighting effects were spectacular). At last the great god Kulkulkan arrived, and brought the virgins back to life. Cragg Cedar, Hollywood starlet, who has recently moved to the Big Sur, played Kulkulkan. (Sam Morse, originally cast for the part, was ill).

Many others participated in the pageant, and Pat Cunningham designed the costumes.

Among those seen at the Ball, were Mr. and Mrs. George Seidenbeck, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Miles Leoni, Sam Colburn, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Draper, Mrs. Henry Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Terry Eby, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Crouch, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Osbourne, Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. Royden Martin, Miss Sophie Harpe, Mrs. William W. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Ariss, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Tevis, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith, Tinsely Fry, Mr. and Mrs. James Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Emery, Thomas N. Bunn, Dr. and Mrs. G. Ridgley Parker, Colonel and Mrs. Harold Mack, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lofton, C. W. Wolterding, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Mettler, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nicod, Mrs. Star Ellis, Henry D. Makin, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Wall, Al Raiton, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Olivetti, Eddie Christianson, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dean, Gene Perrine, Cragg Cedar, Richard E. Hayman, Miss Wilma McKenzie, and countless others. Two or three hundred were there altogether.

Mrs. John Cunningham, who was general chairman of the Arts Ball, was assisted by Bruce Ariss, Mrs. Julian P. Graham, Mrs. Robert Aurner, Mrs. G. Ridgley Parker, Mrs. P. C. Staley and Mrs. Theo Green.

Wilgress Going To England

John Wilgress, rare-book dealer who recently arranged the sale of an original Shakespeare folio, is leaving for England around the first of January on a buying trip. He will be gone about two months.

Rusters Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster entertained last Sunday evening with an informal supper honoring Forrest Barnes. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Barnes, Mrs. Julie Hess (Mr. Barnes' mother), and Mr. and Mrs. Alan Van Nuys.

New Officers For Kennel Club

The Del Monte Kennel Club elected new officers this week following the resignation of S.F.B. Morse as president. Mrs. Elizabeth Boyer is the new president of the organization, Mr. J. Huizenga is vice-president and Derek Rayne is secretary.

Formerly Helen Heavey served as vice-president, and Marion Kingsland as secretary.

The Del Monte Kennel Club plans to branch out into all kinds of new activities, including dances and parties. (Two dogs per person, joked Derek Rayne). They are also seriously considering changing the location of the dog-shows to a place more climatically satisfactory. They will either have them in the Carmel Valley or over at Del Monte, but have not yet reached a definite decision.

Taylor's Entertain

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Taylor entertained a great crowd for Thanksgiving dinner, including Mrs. Taylor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elgin W. Macannon of Salinas, and her niece, Miss Lynda Clarke, also of Salinas. Also present were Mr. Webster Street, Mrs. Nan Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. George Wilcox, Miss Beth Ingels and Mrs. Billy Moore.

Forrest Barnes Visiting

Forrest Barnes, who left Carmel and his Forest Theatre activities last September for New York where he has been engaged in writing for television, made a rush trip home last week to spend Thanksgiving with his family. He returns to New York this week end, as he is busy working out a show for James Melton, well-known tenor, on the Ken Murray program.

Mr. Barnes is also busy working on a musical in collaboration with David Broekman, the composer, which is tentatively scheduled for production in January.

While here, he and Mrs. Barnes attended numerous social gatherings, and on Friday night entertained at their home at 12th and Junipero. Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. Walter Lehmann, Mr. and Mrs. Ephrim Doner, Phil Speth, Dorothy Weston, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Vilissaratos, Mr. and Mrs. Alan Van Nuys and Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster.

Mrs. Barnes plans to join Mr. Barnes for the summer in New York with their three little boys, Chris, David and Timmy, but the Barnes will keep Carmel their permanent residence. Mr. Barnes will come out to the west coast as frequently as possible.

Thanksgiving In Oakland

Lois Dunham went up to Oakland last week to have Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. De Luchi.

Big Game On Television

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse A. Coe last Saturday gathered at the Coe residence in the Monterey Peninsula Country Club to watch the Big Game on television.

Nan Street Fowler Here

Nan Street Fowler came down from San Francisco to spend Thanksgiving with her father, Webster Street. She returned to the city on Sunday.

Cornelia Elliott Here

Mrs. Thomas Elliott, who played the part of the mother in Ted Kuster's successful production of Tennessee Williams' "Glass Menagerie" last fall, made a flying trip to the Peninsula this week, saw a few friends, then dashed off to Pasadena. Mrs. Elliott, whose permanent home is in Long Island, hopes to get into main-stage production at Pasadena Playhouse with the idea of eventually breaking into the movies.

Visited Sausalito

Mr. and Mrs. James Hopper went up to Sausalito last week end to visit with Mr. Hopper's son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. James Hopper.

They attended the Big Game, dropped in on the Dick Gump who have just returned from Mexico, and came back to Carmel Sunday. Jimmy reports that Dick Gump is having a fine time with his German Band.

Word From Michael Mann

David and Iris Alberto just had a letter from Michael Mann, who is now on concert tour in Europe and at present staying in Karlskammergut, Austria. The talented young violinist, who is a son of Thomas Mann, made his home for several years in Carmel, and gave several concerts at the Sunset Auditorium.

He will play with Yalta Memuhin later this year, and plans to give an American tour in 1951.

Flavia Flavin's Grandmother

Miss Flavia Flavin is expecting her grandmother, Mrs. Frank J. Kelley of San Jose, to come down next week for an indefinite stay. This will be Mrs. Kelley's first visit to the Peninsula in several years.

Miss Flavin, who usually divides her time between the Flavin ranch in the Cachagua and their Pebble Beach residence, will remain at Pebble Beach during her grandmother's stay.

Thanksgiving Day Wedding

At 7 o'clock Thanksgiving morning, Joan Sanders and Gene Vandervort of Carmel exchanged vows before the altar of the Blessed Sacrament Chapel at Carmel Mission. Reverend John Caulfield officiated.

The bride wore a pin-check suit in black, blue and red, a black velvet hat, and her accessories were in black suede. She wore a corsage of white carnations. The new Mrs. Vandervort is the daughter of Mrs. Fay Sanders of Carmel, and the grand-daughter of Mrs. Anna Sanders of Pacific Grove.

Her maid-of-honor was Miss June Updike who wore a royal blue suit and a white carnation corsage exactly like the bride's. Dale Vandervort, the groom's brother, was best man.

After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was given at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Vandervort. Mrs. Fay Sanders, Mrs. Dale Vandervort and Mrs. Charles Marcolli, sister of the groom, joined the happy bridal party. The table was beautifully decorated with white stock and chrysanthemums, and following breakfast, wedding cake and champagne were served.

Following a brief honeymoon in Northern California, the newlyweds returned to Carmel where they will make their home.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vandervort graduated from Carmel High School last June where Gene was an outstanding member of the basketball and baseball teams.

Ferros' Thanksgiving

Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Ferro went up to San Francisco last week to spend Thanksgiving with Mrs. Ferro's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Grabhorn.

The Ferros have recently moved from their house on Camino Real to their new house near the entrance to the Carmel Valley. Currently they are very busy with furnishing and decorating problems, getting rid of old furniture, old books, and acquiring new.

To Mill Valley And Back

Boris Veren, Carmel book-dealer, went up to Mill Valley for Thanksgiving, and had a wonderful time at the San Francisco potter's show. Romaine Wetmore accompanied him to the potter's show, and returned to the Peninsula on Saturday.

Thanksgiving At Marie's

Most of the clan turned up for Thanksgiving dinner at Marie Short's last week, except for Bill Short who lives in Sausalito and couldn't get away. But John and Peggy Short were there with their two children, Manda and Lenci, Kraig and Neil and their small son, Mark, and Erik Short who attends Monterey Peninsula College.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Smith went to dinner, too, and so did Clarkson Crane.

Trip To Roswell

Mr. and Mrs. Frank De Amaral dashed down to Roswell, New Mexico, to spend Thanksgiving with their son, Frankie, who is a student at the New Mexico Military Institute.

Frankie, a Carmel boy, is in his second year at the institute.

The De Amarals had a wonderful time, saw several other local boys at the Institute, including Alan Tootelian, formerly student body president at Carmel High School, and Zane Baird, the son of Mrs. K. Hovden of Monterey.

Pop Smith Had Two Thanksgivings

Pop Smith had two Thanksgiving dinners last week, one on Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell D. Sahlberg in Pacific Grove, the second on Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Prosser and daughter Helen Prosser. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nicols were guests also, and Mrs. Nichols cooked dinner.

After dinner, the crowd went to see the Streets of New York at the First Theatre.

Joanne Gorham Engaged

Joanne Gorham recently surprised her friends on the Stanford campus by passing the traditional box of candy at Durand House in order to announce her engagement to Walter Reynolds Newman.

Joanne is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Gorham of Carmel, and she is a graduate of Carmel High School. She will receive her degree from Stanford University in June.

Walter Newman, or "Rennie", as the future bride-groom is known, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Newman of Los Angeles. Originally they came from Evanston, Illinois. He is a Stanford graduate, was a member of the Chi Psi fraternity, and now is studying at the University of Southern California in the School of Architecture.

The couple plan a summer wedding in Carmel, but have not yet set the date. After their marriage, they will live in Los Angeles until Mr. Newman completes his studies at U.S.C.

Orchid Expert Talks

Herbert Hager, well-known orchid expert, addressed the garden section of the Carmel Woman's Club Monday, November 27. He explained the origins of the orchid, its shipment from jungles in Guatemala, Brazil, India, Hawaii, the Philippines and Australia, and illustrated the lecture with colored slides.

Mr. Hager was introduced by the Carmel Woman's Club President, Mrs. F. E. Vaughan, in the absence of the Garden Section Chairman, Mrs. E. T. Patee. She expressed her appreciation to Mr. and Mrs. William B. Skowran, local orchid growers, for their contribution to the clubhouse decorations, and to Mrs. Sam Greedy for her table piece of roses. The rostrum was baked with potted orchids, seed bottles, slips, books on orchid culture, and literature from the E. W. McLellan Orchid Company in San Francisco.

GRAVES COLOR SLIDES

At the Photography Appreciation Class of the Carmel Adult School on Monday evening Dec. 4, C. Edward Graves will show color slides of the Yosemite High Sierra, the Mt. St. Helens region in Washington, and Mr. Rainier National Park. The program is open to the public and begins at 8 p.m. in Sunset School auditorium.

Following the lecture by Mrs. Hager, a potted orchid known as the C. Remy Cholet was auctioned off by Mrs. Helen Clark Cranston for $15. Mrs. Dorothy C. Bigaman was the highest bidder.

Tea was served by Mrs. L. C. Miller, the club hostess, and she was assisted by Mrs. Douglas H. Mirtz and Miss Kay Knudson. Mrs. F. L. Knudson and Mrs. William B. Skowran poured.

The next meeting of the Carmel Woman's Club will be held at 2 p.m., December 4, in the club house at 9th and San Carlos. It will be a musical afternoon featuring Gladys Steele, diseuse, and Carl Hague, tenor. Hague, who is descendant of the Norwegian composer, Johan Smudsen, will sing Norwegian songs.

Lions, Kiwanis, Rotary Party

Members of the Lions Club, the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club met at the Mission Ranch Tuesday night for a big ladies' night party, commencing with a cocktail hour followed by dinner at 7:30.

Dr. Robert Burns, president of the College of the Pacific and the guest speaker, discussed the past hundred years in California, and the hundred years to come; and dealt at length with the development of the Central Valley.

The program consisted of choral singing by the Carmel High School Glee Club under the direction of John Farr, and dances by the Carmel Ballet Academy whose director is Joanne Nix.

Reneg Wurzmann did a Flower Girl dance; Pamela Gamble, Midinette; Renee Wurzmann, Pamela Beales, Robin Burham and Bonnie Wager, Four Artists, Elizabeth Johnson, Moonlight; Rosalie Di Maggie, In the Forest; Bonnie Wager, Snow Fairy.

Over 150 people attended the party.

Mrs. Hasty's Sister Gone

Mrs. Clarkland Betts, who had spent a month in Carmel visiting her sister, Mrs. Jerome Allen Hasty, left last week for her home in Flemington, New Jersey. Mrs. Betts loves Carmel, comes out from the east as frequently as possible.

Wedding At Peter Pan

Jacqueline Fauntleroy and John Bartlett Doelman were united in marriage at Peter Pan Lodge on Tuesday afternoon, November 28. Rev. K. Fillmore Gray of the Church of the Wayfarer officiated at the ceremony which was held in front of the huge fireplace banked with greens and blue hydrangeas.

The bride, who has lived for the past two years in Carmel, wore a dress of powder-blue wool-crepe, a hat of navy blue and navy blue accessories. She carried a white Bible, and wore a spray of orchids. She was given in marriage by Willard Whitney of Carmel. Virginia Busse Pindar, matron-of-honor wore a dress of raspberry crepe, a white hat, and a spray of orchids.

Baird Doelman, brother of the groom, was best man.

The groom's mother, Mrs. Alice Doelman of Carmel, was present at the wedding, as well as a host of friends and acquaintances.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held and champagne punch was served as well as cocktail sandwiches and wedding cake. The table was decorated with flowers and masses of blue hydrangeas to match the bride's dress.

After their honeymoon, the newlyweds will make their home in the Carmel Highlands.

Mary Lindsay Oliver Expected

Mary Lindsay Oliver, distinguished English portrait painter, will return from Santa Barbara where she has been visiting friends to spend a few days down at Big Sur as the guest of Margaret Lial. Earlier this month, she spent several weeks at the Pebble Beach residence of Mr. and Mrs. Willard W. Wheeler.

Miss Oliver will be remembered by Carmelites for her marvelous production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Mikado in the Wheeler's patio 20 years ago. She produced it in conjunction with the Carmel Valley Ranch School, and it was attended by over 150 people.

Miss Oliver had worked with Gilbert and Sullivan in England, had directed many of their London productions, and many people who went in fear and trembling to The Mikado at the Wheeler residence were amazed and delighted to discover that it was not an amateur performance.

Miss Oliver makes her home in Washington, D.C., but has spent the past few months visiting friends on the west coast. Busy doing portrait work, she plans to settle here, and everyone hopes she will decide to return to Carmel and give more Gilbert and Sullivan.

I Have A "Close Squeak"!

Spent last Saturday morning wandering all over the house. Wherever I went—upstairs or down—I kept hearing a "squeak." Couldn't find out where it was coming from until noon-time when the missus came home from her weekly shopping.

"Listen," I says to her, "hear that squeak?" I started walking real quiet-like across the kitchen and there it went again! "Joe Marsh," she laughs, "that is nothing but your suspender clips rubbing back and forth when you walk!" And darned if it wasn't! From where I sit, I'd been letting a little thing become a serious problem. Like some little difference of opinion or taste will start off a great big argument. I may prefer a temperate glass of beer with my dinner—while the missus likes tea—but we figure that no two people have exactly the same likes and dislikes. So, why get all "het up" about it?

The moral is, check your suspenders—and check your temper when it comes to little things.

PEGGY MARQUARD CHOSEN
REAL ESTATE EDITOR

At the National Real Estate Convention held in Miami, Fla., from November 12 to 17, Peggy Porter Marquard of Carmel Valley was chosen as National Editor for the Women's Council Real Estate magazine.

"I am thrilled at this honor," says Peggy. "My editorial policy will be one of encouraging private home ownership."

Mr. and Mrs. Le Roy McQueery and their 2 1/2-year-old son, Billy, were down last week-end to visit Mrs. McQueery's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Karl Mathiot, at Rancho Carmelo. They weren't able to get down for Thanksgiving but spent Friday and Saturday.

Pictures of Rancho Carmelo—the horses, barn, various activities around the ranch, appeared on television last Tuesday over KRON, the Chronicle program sponsored by Betty King. This was a repeat performance. The first one was two months earlier, and Betty King was so fascinated with Karl Mathiot's Arabian and palominoes that she decided to show it again.

Peggy Porter Marquard got back Thanksgiving Day from an exciting whirlwind trip to Mexico, Havana, and Miami, Florida. She was crazy about Mexico City; can't wait to go back there; and crazy about Havana, too. In fact, she says she's got the travel-bug now.

Intimate Opera Found Charming If Somewhat Small For Sunset Aud.

BY EBEN WHITTLESEY

With the presentation last Saturday evening of the Intimate Opera Company, under the direction of Frederick Woodhouse, the Carmel Music Society undertook an experiment whose success seems to be a matter of some controversy, judging by audience reaction. The three English artists, Mr. Woodhouse, a seasoned baritone, Keturah Sorrell, soprano, and Stephen Manton, tenor, accompanied at the piano by Inez Carroll presented an unusual program of eighteenth and nineteenth century music, mostly adapted and arranged for these artists by Mr. Woodhouse.

The material chosen was of antiquarian interest, spiced with a good deal of humor, and expounded with vigor and imagination. But the program should have been heard in a drawing room or very small theater rather than in the cold formality of a concert auditorium. Perhaps it should not be so, but the fact remains that the Music Society audience comes to concerts not to be amused or intrigued, but to be stirred and stimulated by serious artistic expression conveyed by highly talented artists. Since Saturday's program could not be thus characterized, many of the less adaptable listeners went home disappointed.

First offering of the evening was an arrangement of Bach's Coffee Cantata with a couple of selections from his Birthday Cantata thrown in for good measure. This work is, to the best of my knowledge, Bach's only effort at humor and was inspired by the rather sudden spread of the coffee habit in Europe in the eighteenth century. Miss Sorrell sang the part of the daughter who is so devoted to coffee that nothing but the thought of losing her fiancée (Mr. Manton) can affect her adiction. The tenor and soprano duets were rather charming, and the voices well balanced.

The next item on the program was an adaption of an eighteenth century musical drama entitled Thomas and Sally or The Sailor's Return. This little story of the sailor and the girl he left behind and of the lascivious squire who tries to seduce her was strongly reminiscent of the plays we see revived by the Troupers of the Gold Coast at the First Theater in Monterey. Some of the rather amusing lines and songs also had the stamp of a primitive ancestor of Gilbert and Sullivan. Mr. Woodhouse was amusing and lively as the squire. Costumes were gay and imaginative. There were a number of pleasant pastorella English tunes, some nice lyrics for the soprano, and a convincing hornpipe danced by the tenor as the young sailor. Miss Sorrell's voice was sweet.

Two very amusing and lively old English songs were sung and acted by Mr. Woodhouse. The Dust Cart Cantata, a burlesque of Italian cantatas of the eighteenth century found Mr. Woodhouse taking the part of the dustcart girl who proudly philosophizes from atop her humble refuse wagon. The Bottel Song (spelled as in old English) was a very quaint and amusing eulogy of the leather bottle and its merits as a container for alcoholic drinks. As an encore, Mr. Woodhouse sang Diddy Dolus, a ballad about an unhappy husband who managed to drown his nagging wife by some adroit trickery.

The final selection on the program was an adaption of an Offenbach operetta for two voices Jacques and Jacqueline. The tenor and the soprano enacted a pastoral story two lonesome souls from Alsace who meet in Paris and fall in love. There were some charming duets and very singable melodies.

Erica Franke's Watercolor Show At Peninsula Craft

There will be a showing of drawings and water-colors by Erica Franke at the Monterey Peninsula Craft Center in Monterey beginning Saturday, December 2.

Prevue will be between 4 and 5:30 tomorrow afternoon and the newly-opened craft center, which has previously had shows by Richard Lofton and Sam Colburn of Carmel, is next to Virginia Norris' Antique Shop in Monterey.

The show will last for two weeks, but everyone is urged to come to the prevue tomorrow.

Erica Franke, who studied art for four years in Italy, came to the Peninsula a year ago and now lives on Carmel Point. She had a show earlier this year at the Blair Studios on the Wharf in Monterey.

Carmel Work Center Weekly Notes . . .

By Carol Tindell

Christmas gifts from Carmel made by the Peninsula's own Craftsmen . . . what could be more appropriate . . . and where could you find more beautiful gifts than at the Carmel Work Center's two shops.

Katherine Allen has just brought in some cute little mustard and jam jars in gay colors. If you are looking for a very special gift, her vases or pitchers in her famous Chinese Red would be our solution. A new assortment of Virginia Blair's tiles and plates have just come in also . . . delicate sea shells made by Blanche Casey are always welcome gifts. Mrs. Casey has made a collection of shells that can be used for ash-trays, as vases, as center pieces.

"Little Lilli", a most fashionable pig, has joined Harriet Staver's family of little animals . . . the Blue Danube (a blue Dachshund), Yak-Yak the pink unicorn and the Penny Wise Pig.

There are so many beautiful and clever things from which to select your Christmas gifts that we can't tell you all of them so just stop in at the Seven Arts Court or Pebble Beach.—adv.

Kents' Reception

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kent (Celia Seymour) held a brilliant reception attended by over a hundred guests at their home on Junipero between Eleventh and Twelfth last Tuesday in celebration of their recent wedding.

The house was beautifully decorated with chrysanthemums, candles and dozens of flowers sent by friends, and the dining room with stunning arrangements of fruit.

The new Mrs. Kent received her host of friends and acquaintances in a long, pale blue hostess gown, and wore a huge corsage of gardenias, the gift of the groom.

She was assisted by Mrs. Perry Newberry, Mrs. Samuel Wainwright, Jr., Mrs. Clarence Posthwaite, Mrs. Marjorie Schiffer, Bertha Bowen and Mrs. James Swartley.

The reception lasted from 4 until 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Kent were married at Trinity Episcopal Church in San Jose November 12, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Molette were the witnesses to the simple ceremony. They spent their honeymoon at Carmel Inn, and are now at home at Junipero street which will be their permanent residence.

Mr. Kent comes from Scotland and Canada, and his son, a famous Canadian and British war-ace, is now stationed at Dayton, Ohio, where the British government sent him to help in training the American Air Force. Mrs. Kent, has lived here for many years.

Retired Officers To Meet

The regular monthly dinner of the Retired Officers of the Monterey Peninsula and vicinity will be held at the Officer's Club at Fort Ord December 5. The committee in charge of the dinner consists of Col. J. K. Partello, Col. Charles Stalsburg, and a member from Santa Cruz.

Refreshments will be served as usual, beginning at 6:30.

Cards have been sent to members, but it should be understood that all retired officers are welcome to attend. Reservations should be made as soon as possible to facilitate arrangements.

Reservations can be made either by returning the invitation cards, or by calling the club officer who can be reached at 2-4511, extension 5140.

It is suggested that retired officers who recently have arrived in this area get in touch with Brig. Gen. G. D. Wahl at 7-4121 or write him at Route 1, Box 416, Carmel, so that the roster of retired officers can be kept current. Write name, rank and service, mailing address and telephone number.

Down From San Jose

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Henning came down from San Jose last week to have Thanksgiving with their two daughters, Mrs. Carol Howard and Mrs. Paul Budd of Carmel.

Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Budd entertained them for Thanksgiving dinner, along with Mrs. Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Budd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Miss Myrtle Cassels and Nikki Budd.

Movie Star Waiting Tables

Cragg Cedar, Hollywood movie starlet who has recently moved to the Big Sur, is going to go to work as a waiter at Nepenthe this week. At the "Feast of Kulkulkan" Arts Ball where he appeared last Saturday night as the Great God Kulkulkan he expressed his terror at "going to work again".

The movies, evidently, are not quite the same thing.

Rusters To Pasadena

Mr. and Mrs. John Ruster went to Pasadena last week to spend Thanksgiving with Mr. Ruster's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth M. Vosburg. They took the two children, Heidi and Peter, along, too, and Katie reported they had a wonderful time; brought half the turkey home with them.

Big Game Round-up

Among the many Carmelites who were seen at the Big Game last Saturday were Dr. and Mrs. John Gratiot, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Elston, Glen Leidig, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cook, John Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Roderick Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Al Fry, Dr. and Mrs. Chester Hare, and Mrs. Hare's daughter, Gay Masten.

Grandson Visits Mrs. Hasty

Rowan Rowntree, 15-year-old grandson of Mrs. Jerome Allen Hasty, came down from Berkeley for Thanksgiving. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Cedric Rowntree of Berkeley; Mrs. Rowntree is the former Harriet Hasty.

Down From Davis

Nancy Schumann, the daughter of Mrs. Martin Flavin, came down from Davis last week to spend Thanksgiving at the Flavin ranch in the Cachagua with Flavia.

Grandson Born

Mrs. Helen Clark Park of Carmel received word of the birth on Wednesday, November 29, of a grandson, William C. Pillsbury, Jr. He was born at the Children's Hospital in San Francisco and he weighed in at 7 lbs. 9 oz.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Pillsbury, the baby's paternal grandfather is Captain Horace W. Pillsbury, U.S.N., Ret., and his maternal grandfather is Howard Gray Park of the Santa Inez Valley.

Mrs. Pillsbury, the former Frances Park, is well-known in Carmel where she lived prior to her marriage. She also has a little girl, Carol.

Camera Club Contest

The Camera Club will have a contest night on portraits Saturday, December 2, at Sunset. The meeting will start at 7:30. Pictures to be sent to the P.S.A. will be judged, and everyone is urged to come.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCH

"God the Only Cause and Creator" is the subject for the Christian Science Lesson-Sermon to be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, this Sunday, December 3rd. The Golden Text will be taken from Acts: "Lord, thou art God, which hast made heaven, and earth, and the sea, and all that in them is" (4:24).

The following citations have been selected from those that will comprise the sermon:

The Bible: "Thine, O Lord, is the greatness, and the power, and the glory, and the victory, and the majesty: for all that is in the heaven and in the earth is thine; thine is the kingdom, O Lord, and thou art exalted as head above all. Now therefore, our God, we thank thee, and praise thy glorious name" (I Chronicles 29:11, 13).

Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures by Mary Baker Eddy: "Divine Science, the Word of God, saith to the darkness upon the face of error, 'God is All-in-all,' and the light of ever-present Love illumines the universe" (p. 503).

Phillips Return From Texas

Mr. and Mrs. Tex Phillips returned Monday night, after a month's visit with relatives in West Virginia and Texas. They first went to Huntington, West Virginia, where they stayed with Mrs. Phillip's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Hamilton, then down to New Orleans for a few days, and on to Houston, Texas, where they visited Tex's sister, Mrs. Mary Watkins. In San Antonio, they saw Tex's nieces and nephews. Had a wonderful time, but are glad to get back to Carmel.

STRAY BITS...

Last anyone heard from Dan and Gertrude Harris they were at Grand Canyon. Everybody was showered with post-cards. Evidently they've hit greater New York, hence the silence. . . . Lilik and Louise Schatz ought to have reached New York by now, too. En route to Palestine. They were going to look the Harrises up via Zahara Schatz, Lilik's sister who does plastics. Wonder if they'll see Toni Ricketts (now Mrs. Ben Vulcani) when they get to Palestine?

Nobody's heard from Toni in a long time. . . .

Which reminds us, Bruce Ariss's play about the Big Sur, Point of Departure, has been put off until after Christmas. Casting will be done in January; and it will be produced at the Wharf Theatre. Bruce hopes to get a lot of "old-timers" from down-the-coast in the cast. . . . and lots of artists from Anderson Creek to take part in the wild, Bohemian party that winds up the third act. What will Henry Miller think of this? And what will Varda think? What will the old-timers, think, for that matter?

Speaking of the Big Sur, all the Fassetts came to town last week. . . . not only Bill and Lolly, but five, and I do mean five, children. Namely Griff, Frank, Dorcas, Holly, and Kim. The object? Christmas shopping. What happened? Well, Bill took the boys out to the sand-plant, and by the time he got back it was almost too late for Lolly to get to the shops with the girls.

Lolly said they weren't going to have a New Year's party this year. . . . too much trouble. And besides, not enough help to serve everybody.

Lolly has taken up square-dancing and is currently engaged in the problem of making a skirt. She has been wearing slacks for such a long time that she's afraid she'll do the wrong thing once she gets it on (such as putting her feet up on a table). We suggested pantaloons, ruffled ones, under the skirt. . . .

Incidentally, where can this square-dance be?

Things are getting so quiet around here, despite the Christmas season. Maybe somebody ought to give a party. But when you come to think of it, Hallow'en, Thanksgiving and Christmas come rather close together. . . . and then New Year's. What a giddy pace. And we've gotten so sober in these parts lately. We understand that the Pebble Beach crowd is keeping up as usual, and that lots of people are positively fatigued with the continual weekly round of cocktail parties. . . . but here in Carmel things seem to have boiled down to family occasions. We have to rest up between things. Well, maybe in the next week or two things will get more giddy.

Speaking of giddiness (or were we) we hear that our Mexican friends the Valenzuelas, are making a success of their inn in Guanajuato. . . . and that Zoe Kernick, former social editor of the Pine Cone is in Taxco. . . . and that John

New Project Planned For Children Here

Miss Clara Dayton, concert pianist, music lecturer, and teacher announces a new project, Concerts for Children to begin in March, 1951. The programs will take place Saturday mornings and will be of special interest to young people between the ages of 9 and 16, although younger and older listeners are welcome to attend. Further details will be available in the near future.

Miss Dayton has had wide experience in the fields of concert performance choral direction and music education. She is interested in acquainting young people with the language of music in its many aspects, and will also act as commentator for the series.

Upton, former reporter on the Pine Cone, is living in Ajipic. Why Upton chooses Ajipic we can't imagine, but on the other hand his rent is only $14 a month and the house is large. . . . even if it does lack a bathroom, hot running water, and various other luxuries to which we have grown accustomed in these United States, Saludes, Amigos!

Thelma Witherell Is New Owner Of Turn About Shop

Mrs. Thelma E. Witherell, who has lived in Carmel for the past seven years, has just taken over the Turn-about Shop on Dolores street opposite the post-office.

Mrs. Witherell, who previously has been in business in Carmel, is not only going to carry on with the antiques and bric-a-brac formerly offered for sale there, but is going to have a Clothes Exchange as well. People who have dresses, coats, skirts, etc., of which they are tired, can take them in and sell them. They can also bring in furniture, vases, odds and ends about the house—so long as they are not junk.

Mrs. Witherell's son, Donald Witherell, is well-known here, for after getting out of the Navy in 1945, he came to Carmel, attended Monterey Peninsula College and now goes to the University of California.
